The College of Charleston will celebrate its 250th anniversary on January 30, 2020, which is the date the university was founded. In a special partnership, The Post and Courier will commemorate this incredible milestone of the nation's 13th-oldest university throughout the year with a series of events. Starting January 30, you will see a key point of this partnership: the "College of Charleston Flashback," which highlights important moments in the 250-year history of the College of Charleston and is published daily on page 2 of The Post and Courier.

The College will be celebrating its 250th anniversary with a yearlong schedule of events and projects aimed at highlighting the university's storied and complex history while also looking ahead to its bright future. To join in the celebration, The Post and Courier will be publishing a commemorative special publication in August. The special publication will include a historical overview of the past 250 years.

In addition, The Post and Courier will host an event in August on the College of Charleston campus. More details will be provided in the near future.
